

Rocky Mountain Raiders Midget AAA visit to Tudor Manor

As part of giving back, and for the second year in a row, the Rocky Mountain Raiders Midget AAA Female hockey team has partnered up with a local Supportive Living Seniors Care Home in Okotoks, Tudor Manor, to create memories that will last forever.

While the main vision of the team was to give back to the community, many of these girls were surprised how good it actually made them feel and how much they enjoyed volunteering with these seniors. The engaged interactions and smiles in the room were heartwarming. Spending time together means brightening residents' spirits for a short period during the visit but it goes so much beyond that. The residents continue voting on Gingerbread houses, talking about the girls and all bragging about their own group and house. The memories will have a lasting impact, not only for the Residents of Tudor Manor, but also for the Rocky Mountain Raiders.

P.S. Tudor Manor residents planned to attend the Raider's home games but unfortunately had to cancel two times due to weather... but are still determined to go. Their New Year's Resolution!
